

MADERO TO RULE WITH AN IRON HAND IS DEFINITIVE TO REBELS

New President of Mexico Declares That Those in Arms Against the Government Will Be Hunted Down.

STATEMENT GOES OUT TO INSURRECTORS

Mexico City, Nov. 24.—"Bandits and those who rise in arms against the general government will be crushed with the iron hand."

"Local disturbances growing out of the imposition of petty officials who are really unpopular in the vicinity will be treated as such. This is a democratic government and the people have a right to choose their own local officials and that right will be respected by this government."

"Talk of a counter-revolution by General Reyes does not disturb the government. General Reyes may be considering starting one and in the event that he does, meeting the situation will not present even as great difficulty as that of putting down the Zapatist bands in the state of Morelos, merely because these have the advantage of a perfect acquaintance with the broken country in which they are operating."

"Ing. Angel Barrios has started an uprising against the central government and has taken the field in northwestern Oaxaca. General Regula Lila with a sufficient force of men has been sent to put down the uprising. He will not be hampered by red tape and by waiting for orders from headquarters. He has been given the broad commission to put down the movement and has been told to proceed with all energy and to follow such plans as the circumstances of the campaign may dictate. General Lila has been told that the details are left to his discretion but that he is expected to crush the uprising."

In just such terse terms President Francisco I. Madero discussed the general situation in the country this afternoon. Firm in the conviction that the government counts upon all the elements to meet whatever contingency may arise, the president of the republic set at rest any fear that the new administration intended to adopt a kid glove policy with evil-doers or those who wished to disturb the general peace of the nation. Leniency will be shown only where the people have risen in arms in defense of a democratic right which has been torn from them through the imposition of some unpopular official. In this sense the Juchitan difficulty will be settled, as it is the first intimation of the central government to see that every guarantee of the constitution has its full force and effect.

President Madero received the reporter in the cabinet room at the National palace. The chief executive had spent a busy morning. Many committees and private individuals had been received by him and the hour for dinner had already passed. Some of the committees had been told that they could not be received until the afternoon at Chapultepec castle. In the presidential entrance of the palace the troops were formed in a valley of honor, ready to salute at the departure of the president. His automobile was waiting, and outside at least a thousand of the populace were crowded about the entrance awaiting a glimpse of the president.

Despite a trying morning and the fact that all was ready for his departure the president showed no disinclination to hurry through an interview which was to treat of difficult problems in half a dozen states and the rumors of a counter-revolution along the border to be led by General Bernardo Reyes.

None of the nervousness which was characteristic of the leader of the revolution in the days after the return to the capital was in evidence. The president's attitude was that of deep, calm and a deeper conviction. He discussed the situation more as a business man meeting a problem in business than as a statesman dealing with questions which hang on the varying point of view of a fickle public.

Heating one hand lightly on the heavy table about which his cabinet meets, President Madero indicated that he was ready to answer any questions bearing on the general condition of affairs in the nation.

"Among thinking people the attitude of the government in regard to the disturbances in Morelos has been received with the greatest satisfaction," said the reporter, "and it would seem, Mr. President, that a clean-cut, authoritative statement as to the policy of the central government would be most timely at this juncture."

"The policy of the government," replied the president, "will be one of entering the fullest respect for the law. There has been considerable misapprehension as to the stand the government has taken with reference to Zapata. Zapata and his men are left to his discretion but that he is expected to crush the uprising."

In just such terse terms President Francisco I. Madero discussed the general situation in the country this afternoon. Firm in the conviction that the government counts upon all the elements to meet whatever contingency may arise, the president of the republic set at rest any fear that the new administration intended to adopt a kid glove policy with evil-doers or those who wished to disturb the general peace of the nation. "I was of the opinion when I visited Cuauhtla to confer with Zapata that the matter could be settled easily, as it seemed that many had taken the field through a misapprehension of conditions, but the situation was complicated by the fact that the Zapata band had been in the field and fighting the federal troops for some time and it was not possible to arrange the matter through an appeal to calm reasoning. There will be no treating with bandits in the platform of my government."

"But, Mr. President, the press has published statements that there are still grave problems before the government—that a counter-revolution is about to be set on foot on the northeastern frontier under the leadership of General Reyes, and that there exists in Oaxaca, at Juchitan and in the northwest, where Barrios is operating, what amounts to a counter-revolution?"

"General Reyes may be contemplating a revolutionary movement," said the president, and then with a smile he continued, "but I anticipate more trouble in putting down Zapata's bands in Morelos, where they know the country like a book, than would be necessary to meet such an uprising led by General Reyes. He has absolutely no following among the people and for that reason it will be impossible for him to inaugurate a serious movement."

"The Juchitan difficulty is a local one and I anticipate that it will be settled within a few days. There is a protest against the imposition of a jefe politico. When committees come to me with protests on that ground, namely that their rights as citizens to choose their own local officials have been disregarded, I have replied in every instance that the government would take every step to canvass the popular opinion and if the complaint is well founded such officials would be removed. I have made it plain that in a democracy it is the duty of the central government to follow such a line of conduct. That will be the government's policy in Juchitan."

"Ing. Angel Barrios has risen in arms in Oaxaca, refusing to recognize the present government and proclaiming Emilio Vazquez Gomez. This is the case against the central government. General Regula Lila has been sent to that district with sufficient force of men to reduce the rebels to order. Before leaving he had instructions that the object of his campaign was to put down the seditious movement. He was informed that he was to conduct his own campaign, that there would be no red tape and no availability for orders from the capital, but that he would be expected to crush the uprising and that with the greatest possible dispatch. In my opinion the Barrios movement will be short-lived."

CATTLE SUPPLY IS BECOMING LESS EACH YEAR

Census Report Shows That There Was Less Beef in 1910 Than in 1900; Normal Increase in Dairy Cows.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The census enumeration of 1910 found 6,493,619 fewer cattle in the United States than were reported ten years ago, but the enormous months in which the two censuses were taken make the figures of little value for comparison. The count in 1910 was made April 15, and that of 1900 on June 1. The interval between these two dates is the period of greatest productivity on the farms and if the 1910 census had been taken on June 1 the total number of cattle found on the farms would have been much greater.

The census bulletin made public today shows 61,257,791 cattle on the farms on April 15, 1910, compared with 67,719,419 on June 1, 1900. There was a normal 10 years' growth in the number of dairy cattle. The census of 1910 reported 20,550,844, compared with 17,123,633 in 1900, an increase of 20 per cent, or almost the same as the increase in population. Of other cows 11,785,473 were counted in 1910 and 11,569,194 in 1900.

The total number of steers and bulls was 13,845,988 in 1910 and 16,534,518 in 1900.

On April 15, 1910, calves born after January 1 numbered 1,253,450. The nearest corresponding class in 1900 was calves under 1 year old, which numbered 15,315,584. Heifers born in 1909 numbered 7,253,420, compared with 7,174,483 more than 1 year and less than 2 years old in 1900.

The average farm value of dairy cows was $34.24 in 1910 and $29.68 in 1900. The average value of steers and bulls was $26.22 in 1910 and $26.40 in 1900.

Total value of all live stock was $1,484,890,000 in 1910 and $1,475,205,000 in 1900, an increase of less than 1 per cent.

Texas has more cattle than any other state, 4,681,202, Iowa is second, with 4,468,422; Kansas third with 3,066,237; Nebraska fourth 2,931,255; Wisconsin fifth, 2,678,160 (two-thirds dairy cows); Missouri sixth, 2,556,420; Illinois seventh, 2,436,146; New York eighth, 2,421,593. Oklahoma is twelfth with 1,839,028.

The Agricultural department's estimate of the number of cattle on January 1, 1910, was 69 million, valued at 1,697 million dollars, respectively 12.7 per cent and 14 per cent more than the census figures for April 15, 1910.

Doubt of the accuracy of the census figures is justified by the fact that the population has increased 21 per cent in ten years, and there certainly has been no important, if any, curtailment in the consumption of beef. Therefore, the conclusion is justified that the beef supply now is larger than in 1900. The increase in dairy cattle in the last ten years shows just about the same percentage as the increase in population. The disparity in the number of cattle in 1910 and 1900 must be attributable almost wholly to the fact that the censuses of the two years were taken at different seasons.

Exports of cattle and beef were equal to about 1,050,000 head in the fiscal year of 1909-10 and about 300,000 head in the twelve months ending last June.

OSLER RIGHT; YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

Gray Hair is First Sign of Age, Harmless Remedy Restores to Natural Color.

Osler isn't the only man who turns down old age. In the business world the "young man" is always the one who picks the plums. It is an age of "new thought," "new talent," etc., and the old man is passed by in the race.

One of the first signs of coming age is the appearance of gray hairs. When you see them, act promptly. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will correct this sign, which so often deceives people into thinking that age is really upon them. It is a well known fact that Sage and Sulphur will darken the hair. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur combines these old time remedies with other agents, which remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize the druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't look old before your time. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and see what an improvement it will make in the appearance of your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

A tight feeling in the chest accompanied by a short, dry cough, indicates an inflamed condition of the lungs. To relieve it buy the dollar size BAL-LARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP; you get with each bottle a free HERRICK'S RED PEPPER POROUS PLASTER for the chest. The syrup relaxes the tightness and the plaster draws out the inflammation. It is an ideal combination for curing colds settled in the lungs. Sold by all druggists.

COUNCIL TO MEET THIS AFTERNOON

Special Session to Consider Petition of M. P. Stamm and 10 Property Owners in Proposed Paving District.

The city council will hold a special session this afternoon at 2 o'clock to consider a petition presented by M. P. Stamm and ten property owners for having the paving done under the 1909 law instead of the 1903 laws as at present contemplated.

The latter law provides for the council to have the paving done through a commission selected by the property owners who will pay the bills, while the earlier statute allows the council to handle the matter directly.

City Attorney Hugh J. Collins is authority for the statement that the latter law does not affect the status of the former statute, but merely gives the council an additional method by which to pave. Mr. Collins said that this matter had been thoroughly tested by the recent agitation in Roswell over the same question and that the two laws did not conflict.

The council will likely proceed to the paving as previously arranged, as it is understood the sentiment of the aldermen is to pave under the law giving the city full authority to handle the matter for itself without a commission of taxpayers. Other matters of interest are expected to come up.

JOSEPH PHILLIPS DIED TODAY

Well Known Veteran of Civil War, Formerly Commander of the Local Post Answers Last Roll Call.

Former Post Commander Joseph Phillips of G. K. Warren post of the Grand Army, answered his last roll call this morning, being claimed by the grim reaper.

Mr. Phillips leaves four daughters, his wife having preceded him to the last great sleep some years ago. Mr. Phillips was universally loved and respected and his death is felt by the entire community.

Funeral arrangements will not be made until the arrival of a son-in-law, Dr. Moseley, who last night drove 65 miles in an effort to be with his aged relative at his death bed.

Mr. Phillips served in several regiments during the great conflict, first enlisting in the 71st Illinois volunteer infantry. He was a private of company K in this regiment, and served with honor until his discharge in October, 1862. His enlistment having then expired, he re-enlisted in the same month in the 15th Illinois cavalry as a private. He was transferred to company L of the 10th Illinois cavalry as a sergeant in October, 1865, at the close of the war. He served at one time in the same command as his father.

Comrade Phillips joined G. K. Warren Post, No. 5, on May 5, 1906, and was elected twice to the highest office the post could grant, that of post commander. On account of ill health, he recently resigned this office, being succeeded by Matthias Custer.

Comrade Phillips was 68 years old and until last July was an energetic and industrious worker. At that time he sustained an illness from which he never recovered. He again attempted to carry on his work, but was forced to desist after a few days. He was able to be out on November 11, but has not been out of the house for any length of time since. He died this morning at his home, 1909 N. Eighth street at 7:40 o'clock. He was born at Benton, Ill.

L. H. Galles returned last night from a stay of several weeks in Magdalena, where he has been on business.

COURT NOTES

The case against an Albuquerque saloon keeper for alleged violation of the liquor law concerning the sale of intoxicants on election day, has been in the hands of the jury all afternoon and at four o'clock the jury was still out.

The case against Charles F. Aycock, charged with practicing medicine without license, in the sale of Suber-electric was taken up this afternoon. The court will pronounce sentence on the prisoners found guilty at this time, tomorrow afternoon.

A NUMEROUS AGREEMENT. (Cleveland Plain Dealer.) The lady jury had been out four hours.

The judge looked tired, the clerk yawned, the lawyers slept. The bailiff, after listening at the keyhole several times, shook his head with a discouraged air.

And then, quite unexpectedly, the jury announced it was ready to report, and the twelve ladies filed in.

"Have you agreed upon a verdict?" the judge demanded.

The forelady nodded and smiled. "We have agreed upon twelve verdicts, your honor," she told him in her flute-like voice.

"You are discharged!" roared the judge.

"Isn't he horrid?" said the ladies.

The lecture at the Gold and Broadway Christian church on "My Umbrella and I in the Holy Land, With Pictures from My Kodak," will be given tonight by Evangelist Mark Wayne Williams. Admission will be free, but a collection will be taken for the expenses of the protracted meeting which continues till Thanksgiving.
